School G7 Eco Conference

Whilst the nations of the G7 were talking about taxes on tech and global health systems, students were more concerned with climate change and how to improve the environment.

With sustainability and conservation at the forefront of their thinking, they were keen to establish how to move their ideas forward and how to connect with the decision makers in companies to bring positive change. Students from across the year groups were involved in live online discussions with schools across the country.

Heartstart

Well done to the students who took part in Heartstart training in May. Learning about resuscitation techniques, students now understand the importance of maintaining a clear airway and keeping the circulation going.

Breakfast with the Head

Year 7 students enjoyed a wonderful breakfast with Headteacher, Mr Martin, recently. The students were all nominated by their teachers for their commitment and hard work.

Mount Recyclemore

Year 10 student, Neave Rose, was invited by Alex Wreckage, Joe Rush and their team to help put together the art installation representing the seven leaders of the G7 named, Mount Recyclemore (instead of the iconic Mount Rushmore).

The installation was designed to send a message to reduce e-waste going to landfill, as well as to encourage the leaders involved in the G7 event to persuade manufacturers to make e-products that last longer and are repairable.

Neave impressed the organisers so much that she has been asked to work on future projects with them.

Year 7 Presentation

Year 7 students made a highly informative presentation to their year group last week. They held an assembly on the importance of the use of social media and the laws and rules which govern it. Many students learned something new and enjoyed the opportunity to hear such an informed delivery.

Majorettes

Congratulations to the Supreme Star Majorette Troupe, they competed for the first time in 2 years last weekend in the South West Majorette Association competitions.

The troupe presented their routines and performed so well they came away with 14 trophies. Redruth School students: Evie, Lexie, Lexi H, Millie, Mia, Beth, Tilly, Grace and Tamsyn were thrilled with their performances and delighted to scoop so many trophies! The troupe train at the school on Monday and Tuesday evenings.

Their trainer, Cat Pascoe said, "The team have worked so hard and are so committed to their training, they really deserve their success. I am very proud of them and delighted that all the hard work has paid off!"
